

GCET 2009 Feedback

(Direct from the students of 9:00 am slot on 1st July 2009)

Hi,

Future Managers,

The Gujarat Common Entrance Test has been conducted at 20 different centers across the Gujarat state today morning.

Enthusiastic, confident, happy, smart, over smart, depressed, nervous, serious, careless, giggling with friends, mature, childish, discussing the GCET, up-to-date, rough and tough, intelligent, sincere, curious, chewing the gum, clever, friends wishing best of luck to each other, hi and byes

This is how we can define the Young and Fresh faces gathered all across Gujarat to write the first computer based GCET. The common thing was the hope and dreams in the eyes for the future.

Feedback based on the students of the first batch is as follows -

- As the students moved in the computer labs, every thing was ready! The computers were 'on' and the screen displayed User ID and Password window.
- One could easily go to the previous or next questions by clicking on the "Previous" and "Next" button respectively.
- There was an option to "Deselect" the selected answer and then re-answer the question.
- If there was any problem then whether extension of time would be given or not was not clear.
- For each question by default the answer choice marked was "Not attempted" and this was denoted by red color. The attempted questions was denoted by green colour in question list. The questions marked for review was denoted by yellow colour. While marking questions for "review" one could mark the probable answer or you can leave it without marking.
 - - Attempted
 - - Unattempted
 - - Marked for review
- Calculator or other instruments were not allowed but they have to enter with a sheet (for rough work) provided by the centre and a pencil. They have to leave every thing else outside the lab.

- MBA and MCA students were seated separately.
- The selection of colleges will be sent through mail only to the student and no further GD, PI process will be there.
- One could not open internet on the PC provided for the test.
- Result was generated immediately; it took around 45 minutes to get the result generated.
- The questions on General Knowledge was tough. Lot of questions were from General Science and Economics.
